Your Property Needs to Be EV Ready to Attract and Retain Tenants

Tenants have many choices, and they will choose the property that offers them the necessary amenities to run a successful business. As the demand for EV charging increases and as your competitors begin to embrace EV charging, you need to make your property EV ready in order to attract and retain tenants.

EV Charging Helps Your Tenants Increase Revenue and Retain Employees

EV drivers are highly educated, earn twice the average national income, and are “green minded,” making them very attractive customers and employees for your tenants. They select their destinations based on the availability of EV charging from their preferred network. Offering EV charging will help your tenants attract this new wave of customers that stays longer and spends more, and will also help attract and retain top talent.

ChargePoint Can Help

ChargePoint offers a customizable and turnkey solution for commercial real estate businesses that helps attract and retain tenants, increase property values, meet emerging state and city regulations, and future-proof your property.

“Our tenants have access to the largest EV charging network with the most advanced hardware, and we have the ability to easily scale our EV charging program across our portfolio.”

—Laura Longworth
Vice President, National Parking Operations
